Wet Fields Cause Some Additional Scheduling Problems For Teams On Friday

Championship Teams Match-ups Set — Semi-Finals Continue In A Few Divisions

By Tom Prendergast

The Father and Son World Series finally got underway yesterday after a rain delay of 24 hours. The 38+ National, 28+ Federal and 28+ Central divisions finished up pool play and went right into the playoffs, while the players in 65+ wood division kept right on going. At the end of the day, the players attended the Bar-B-Que and visited the Trade Show booths. So while the day may have ended without incident it surely didn't start out that way.

Field directors started calling the WS office at 7:00a with news that some of their fields hadn't completely dried out yet and that games would have to be pushed back or moved to other fields. By 7:30a an all out effort was on to replace the games at the Peoria Complex whose fields were still underwater. The next call came from Papago canceling eight more games and a half hour later the big blow, no afternoon or night games at Fitch. As soon as the staff had re-schedule games cancelled at one complex, it seemed like another one would call with more bad news. Some managers received four different re-schedule calls. All of the teams were good sports and took the news in stride, so long as they could play.
